COMMUNICATIONS

College of Sciences Curriculum Committee Minutes - December 12, 2003

REVISION OF FCS 3245 – Effective Spring 2005

Jean Dilworth presented the revised course proposal for FCS 3245 which includes changes in title, description, prerequisites, objectives, writing intensive designation, and term offered. The course revision reflects significant changes in apparel and other textile coloration, and digital print design industries. There is a high demand for textile color print designers in a variety of industries and for those designers to understand color compliance. Proposed catalog copy changes are:

- FROM: FCS 3245 – Textiles – (3-0-3) S. The study of fibers, methods of fabricating textiles, and finishes on the market. Prerequisite: FCS 2244. WI
- TO: FCS 3245 – Textiles: Color Design Production – (3-0-3) F, S. This upper-level course will focus on molecular (polymer) structure and its influence on design, fabrication, coloration and manufacturing of apparel, home and commercial textiles. Prerequisites: FCS 2244, computer and World Wide Web browsers proficiency required.

Major John (Trogia) moved to approve the course revision as amended. A. Trogia (John) moved to vote on the motion at a virtual meeting to be held on January 29. All approved.

REVISION IN MERCHANDISING & CONSUMER AFFAIRS CONCENTRATIONS – Effective Fall 2004

Jean Dilworth presented the proposal to delete INT 1001, Introduction to CAD, as a requirement for students in the FCS in Business Option, Merchandising and Consumer Affairs concentrations, reducing the number of required hours by one (1). The software taught in INT 1001 is auto-CAD based only which is not utilized in the FCS concentrations. This will add a one-hour elective to each program.

Major John (Trogia) moved to approve this program change. A. Trogia (John) moved to vote on the motion at a virtual meeting on January 29. All approved.

REVISION OF ACC 4750 – Effective Fall 2004

Karen Ketler addressed the changes in the revised course proposal for ACC 4750, Governmental and Not-for-Profit Accounting. The course is being revised to include a significant research component and to reflect major changes in governmental accounting as prescribed by Government Accounting Standards Board Statement 34. Changes include revisions in prerequisites, objectives, and a statement regarding requirements for students wanting to take ACC 4750 for graduate credit.

Major John (Trogia) moved to approve the revised proposal as amended. A. Trogia (John) moved to vote on the motion at a virtual meeting on January 29. All approved.

NEXT MEETING

The next regular meeting of this committee will be Thursday, February 26, at 8:15 a.m. in the Dean's Conference Room.
